A BRILLIANT SCENE IN DELMONICO'S RALL-

ROOM-SOME OF THE GUESTS. Delmonico's ballroom probably never looked more attractive and beautiful than it did last night, when the first Patriarchs' ball of the season was held. The decorations in the room were more elaborate than ever before. They were effectively arranged and quite in keeping with the architectural style of the room. Especially was this true of the garlands of flowers and greens which were hung across the long mirrors. These garlands, of the Louis XV period, were made of Japanese asparagus, studded with pink carnations, pink roses, white carnations white roses, intertwined loosely, and tied at one end in an immense bow was a broad sash either pink or blue ribbon. In the corners of the room, and before the windows on the Twentyside, were pots of palms and ferns. On Reginald H. Jaffray, Charles Van Rensseher, Helly P. Robbins, Mr. and Mrs. A. It was a midnight ball, for it was fully 12 o'clock the dancing began in earnest, although Lander and his musicians, who were stationed in polkas, induced some of the early-comers to take possession of the floor. Several round dances and everal sets of lancers were danced before the rooms and corridor began to fill with people who had come in from the opera.

PRETTY DEBUTANTES.

It must be admitted that the ball, except for the floral decorations, was much like any other. There vere the same lights, the same music, Lander's and the Hungarian band, nearly the same matrons, the same men who always will post themselves in the of the ballroom. But the debutantes vere new, fresh and bright, and all of them looked were new, pretty and attractive, although most of them were present at the first of the Monday Evening Dances at Sherry's, a few nights ago. So it doubtful if any of the young women recently troduced into the fashionable world went to the ball feeling the least bit timid or fearing that they would ve a desperately stupid time.

It was after 12:39 o'clock when Lander started up march which meant supper. This was served, as usual, at the small tables in the restaurant on lower floor. Mr. McAllister took down Mrs. Frederick D. Grant, Harold Brown escorted Mrs. I Townsend Burden, the Duke de Lerme accomded Miss Bishop, James T. Woodward escorted Miss Irene Langhorne, of Lynchburg, Va., who in the early part of the evening had been his guest of onor at an opera party; Frederick Diodate Thompon took down Miss Alida Chanler, and Frederick Grant escorted the Baroness Fava. Each of the patriarchs, as in former years, took the precaution have a table for his guests, but there was no decoration on any of the tables. Mr. McAllister had with him at his table Mrs. J. THE CHURCH ACCEPTS IT

ACTION AT LAST ON DR. PAXTON'S POSITIVE RESIGNATION.

THE WEST PRESBYTERIAN CONGREGATION DE-CIDES TO ASK THE PRESBYTERY TO PASS

FAVORABLY ON THE REQUEST-EULO-GISTIC RESOLUTIONS FOR THE

The resignation of the Rev. Dr. John R. Paxton as pastor of the West Presbyterian Church was finally accepted last evening by the members of his congregation, at a meeting held in the church. The Rev. Dr. F. H. Marling presided and Dr. Wilcox was secretary. The meeting was held immediately after the regular weekly prayer service, and was called for the sole purpose of taking some decisive action on Dr. Paxton's resignation. The meeting, which was devoid of excitement, lasted about half an hour, and about 150 members of the church, half of them women, were present. Robert Jaffray read a letter he had received from Dr. Paxton saying that his resignation, as accepted by the Board of Trustees and the session, must be presented to the Presbytery on Mass., on November 27, 1815; was educated at Ham-December 11. Other letters already published were also read. Mr. Jaffray then presented a letter, apparently written, he said, by Mrs. Paxton and signed by Dr. Paxton, saying that the ton and signed by Dr. Paxton, saying that the resignation was final and must be accepted by the church. Dr. Paxton in this letter characterized the printed report of an alleged interview with him at Bridgeville as "garbled and false."

Logan C. Murray then introduced the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted by a rising vote: by a rising vote:

Resolved, That in view of the long-continued ill-ness of our pastor, and in accordance with his earnest desire expressed to the session, this church unites with Dr. Paxton in requesting the Presby-tery to dissolve all pastoral relations, and After Dr. Paxton's resignation had thus been finally accepted the following resolutions of regard were passed:

gard were passed:

Whereas, the congregation of the West Presbyterian Church has voted to accept the resignation of Dr. Paxton as pastor, it seems not only proper, but a privilege, to give expression to feelings of profound regret that the time has come when the relation of pastor and people is to be dissolved; and a privilege also to declare that, in the eleven years that Dr. Paxton has been the pastor of this church, large, and at times overflowing, congregations have attended the Sabbath services, thus testifying to the fact of his eloquenceand attractiveness as a preacher, and that a large number of members has been added to the roll of membership of men and women from all stations of life, and that the prosperous and useful mission church now grown to the condition of a regular congregation, with very valuable property fully paid for, is firmly established, and looking to advanced work in that direction.

Resolved, That it is with personal and serious regret that we find his physical condition to be an extremely critical one, and one which makes it obligatory upon us to accede to his expressed wishes in dissolving this relation, and further.

Resolved, That we shall look with affectionate solicitude for his future rehabilitation and settlement in full restoration to health, with the hope that his attractive powers may yet more fully abound, and that the blessing of the Master whom he preaches may rest upon and abide with him ferever.

Resolved, That we had not only express our gratified for the fact that De Resolved has been about.

Only a spark is needed to ignite into flames the smouldering indignation of the people. Monarchical restoration, without resort to arms, without vise lence and bloodshed, is almost an impossibility. How many people know that out by the Greenough statue of Washington, east of the Capitol, is a vast and cavernous reservoir. Not one in a thousand, but there it is, down in the bowels of the earth, and covered deep beneath the smooth surface of asphaltum. Away back in the thirties Congress purchased a spring over east of the present site of Howard University. It is now at the bottom of thoward University. It is now at the bottom of the unused distributing reference. From it pipes were laid to the Capitol, and in a pond east of the building the water flowed and was held for the use of the early Solons of the hill. In 1835 the reservoir was arched over and covered in, but there it is, and if Congress has been neglectful of the city's interests as to a water supply, the reason is not hard to find. Congress has its own private tap. Pipes run into the Capitol, furnishing the boilers, coolers, and water for cleaning purposes. There is an overflow pipe that runs into the pretty little grotto below the Senate wing at one side of the main sidewalk and tinkles over the mossy bank in a miniature cascade. will be on January 11.

DISPATCHES RECEIVED IN WASHINGTON. THE PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT'S STRENGTH-

FURTHER ORDERS FOR WILLIS. Washington, Dec. 13.-The Secretary of State and the Secretary of the Navy heard from Honolulu this morning through telegrams sent by way of What Mr. Willis told Secretary Gresham will probably remain a secret until the President sees fit to make it public through the medium of Con bert was brief but interesting. It was dated Hono-of the ex-Queen questioned the correctness of the claims made by the Provisional Government as to the strength of its armed forces, alleging that they were few in number. As Admiral Irwin's message is official, and was probably sent only after he had satisfied himself as to the correctness of his statement, there is good reason for believing that the Provisional Government is stronger than was supposed, and the apparent desire of its officers to resist to the utmost any attempt made to restore the Queen opens up an endless field for speculation as to the final outcome.

The arrival of Minister Thurston in San Francisco yesterday will enable him to sail thence to-morrow on the Alameda, due in Honolulu on December 21. This is the vessel whose arrival in Hawall will mark the ending of the period of suspense there in the announcement by Minister Willis, according to his promise, of what he intends to do. The object of Mr. Thurston's visit to Honolulu at this time is to place the benefit of the valuable knowledge he has gained in Washington at the service of his Government. He has acquainted himself with the feeeling on Congress on the Hawalian question as nearly as could be ascertained, and is prepared to resist the attempt to restore Lilluokalani by means of constitutional, diplomatic and statutory cliations.

When the Alameda salls to-morrow she will carry means of constitutional, diplomatical citations.

When the Alameda sails to-morrow she will carry dispatches from Secretary Gresham to Minister Wills, it is believed that these dispatches are important, and contain instructions which may have a vital effect on the Hawalian situation. They were necessarily somewhat hastily prepared in order to catch the Alameda.

To-morrow may be a memorable day in the history of the Provisional Government. The revenue cutter Corwin, which loft San Francisco secretly on the night of December 4, is due in Honolulu then, and it is understood that she carries explicit instructions to Minister Willis as to his action with reference to the "contingencies which have arisen" to interfere with his carrying out the Administration's policy of restoring the ex-Queen. Whether or not the communication to be sent by the Alameda will modify these original instructions sent by the Corwin cannot be ascertained, and friends of the Provisional Government are divided in their opinions as to whether the Minister will act up to the promise he gave President Dole, not to act until the arrival of the Alameda on December 21.

HE SAYS THE PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT IS ALL RIGHT-NO SERIOUS TROUBLE EXPECTED.

San Francisco, Dec. 13.—Hawaiian Minister Thurston stated this afternoon that his advices from Honolulu are of a cheerful character. have nothing to communicate," remarked the Min-ter, "beyond what the press correspondence gives The Provisional Government is all right, and I do not look for any serious trouble at Honolulu." Mr. Thurston would not say whether there was a probability of his return to Honolulu. Ex-United States Consul Severance, who recently returned from Hawaii, spoke in a compilmentary way of the courage and firmness displayed by the men now at the head of the Hawaiian Government. He also expressed a high opinion of Minister Willia, saying that he believed the latter would not precipitate a conflict on the islands with his own countrymen.

Mr. Bishop, head of the banking house of Eishop & Co., Honolulu, who has been in San Francisco for several months, read his Honolulu letters to day with keen interest. He afterward spoke of the outlook as rather cheering than otherwise, believing that Minister Willis was not likely to resert to any violent measures in an effort to carry out his instructions, whatever they may be. Mr. Bishop is in full sympathy with the present Government in Hawaii, and believes that annexation is the best way out of the difficulties there.

TO MEET FORCE WITH FORCE. HAWAH'S EX-MINISTER OF FINANCE ON THE

the best way out of the difficulties there

SITUATION-BLOUNT'S PREJUDICE SHOWN. San Francisco, Dec. 13.-P. S. Jones, Minister of Finance under Queen Liliuokalani when the Ministry was deposed for want of confidence, and subsequently Minister of Finance under the Provisional Government, was a passenger on the Oceanic. He spoke as follows:

"There is intense feeling on the islands and a positive determination to resist force by force. Should the United States attempt to place the Queen on the throne despite the earnest protest of the better class of people, those having a vital interest at stake, there will certainly and absolutely be trouble. The determination to resist the restoration of the Queen is born of a conviction of right and sense of duty. The Provisional Government took chances when it overthrew the rotten monarchy, and now proposes to take chances in the outcome and abide by them.

"In so far as Mr. Blount's impertiality is conerned, he positively refused to hear evidence likely to clash with his preconceived ideas. My assertion though broad, is based upon personal knowledge. From my intimate acquaintance with the Queen's Government, derived while Minister under it, thoroughly acquainted with all its rottenness, I offered to give him the benefit of my observations, but he peremptorily refused to listen to me. Mr. Willis was recently asked what the intentions of the United States were relative to annexation. He answered that contingencies had arisen which had not been expected by himself or his Government, and therefore he was obliged to await further in-

"The idea of resorting to force to resist the Queen's restoration is permeating all classes. Old men have offered their services in case of necessity, or, summing up this feature in the words of an old men have offered their services in case of necessity, or, summing up this feature in the words of an old and prominent clitzen who proffered his aid: 'Captain, I'm old and can't do much, but can stop a builet. When you want me call on me.'

"American women are equally enthusiastic and are actuated by the same feelings. Even the better class of the natives have espoused the Provisional cause, though the constant din about President Cleveland's purposes and proposed doings somewhat dampens their ardor and they are apt to regard him as a great authority, whose wishes it would be futile to oppose. The American League, of about 180 members is composed of strong and determined mechanics, who can be depended upon to give a good account of themselves. They mean business, and let me tell you in this connection that a number of Marshal Wilson's men who belong to the Queen's guard, and who were stationed at police headquarters at the time of the overthrow, flocked up to the Government building and straightway enlisted on the Provisional side. "Annexationists feel keenly the slight put upon them by President Cleveland's Administration in that it imparted its views and its purposes to the British and Royalist citizens in preference to the American residents of Hawaii. If there is any suspicion that the present situation in the islands can be changed without a vigorous protest on the part of the Provisional Government, that suspicion is erroneous."

Briefly, my opinion of the whole situation is this: Recently a very small bird was hatched in Hawaii. By careful nursing this weakling developed into a magnificent bird, and we believe this bird would continue to grow under the fostering care of the American eagle. I assert that it is absolutely beyond the power of Cleveland and Gresham to put the bird back into its original shell."

Gresham to put the bird back into its original shell.

General W. H. Diamond, ex-Superintendent of the San Francisco Mint, was also a passenger from Honolou. He corroborated the statements as to the intense feeling on the islands, and said: "Naturally, the military situation attracted my attention. I found the Provisional Government of rongly intrenched. I watch of the Provisional forces drill under competent and efficient officers. They acquitted themselves in a highly satisfactory way. They are well armed with the best and latest pattern of Springled rifles, with plenty of ammunition and gatting guns and other field pieces. The volunteers are the very best men on the islands. I am credibly informed that the Provisional Government is in power to place 1.500 men in the field, thoroughly equipped on ten minutes notice. That there will be determined forcible resistance is a fact, and I was further told that if marines are landed an attempt will be made to drive them back to their ships. An impression also prevailed that even if armed forces are landed and an order comanding them to fire is given, their pieces would be fired into the air. The moral support of United States, it is believed, will be with the nexation party. The Royalists are more numer than is generally supposed, and are chiefly Bri subjects, who are confident that President Chland will carry their policy through, and bets freely being made that the Queen will eventube restored."

MR. THURSTON RECEIVES DISPATCHES. San Francisco, Dec. 13.-Lorrin A. Thurston rived from Washington yesterday, received a bu rived from Washington yesterday, received a bundle of dispatches this morning which arrived here last night by the steamer Oceanic. Mr. Thurston declines to disclose their contents until he has gone through them thoroughly, and he also refused to discuss the present situation in any way. When asked if he would go to Honolulu by the Alameda, sailing on Friday, Mr. Thurston said that he was as yet unable to give a definite answer, but would probably be able to do so later in the day.
